McKENZIE'S WIT.

A SPEECH WHICH BROUGHT THE HOUSE DOWN.

CONCLUDED FROM LAST WEEK.

For the South Kentuckian.

"ASHES OF ROSES."

Velvet tipped messengers, roses of spring.

What do you bring for me, what do you sing?

The joy of my beauty, its brilliance of hue.

The wealth of my fragrance, the glitter of dew.

The promise of summer, the glory of spring.

To gladden the hearts of earth's children we bring.

But more than all these do you bring unto me.

Your red leaves are written all over with legends.

That call back the past from its shadowy regions.

And the scent of your blossoms of snow and amber.

Wake the dim ghosts of the soul's haunted chamber.

And the joys and the sorrows of summers long round.

Drift by, as your leaves on the breezes are borne.

While memory goes back to the years that are fled.

And all your fair sisters that bloomed and are dead.

Since I stole, in my childhood, all breathless and free.

At the fairs I thought 'neath your bowers to be.

And were in the dawn of my womanhood fair.

Your buds into garlands to twine round my hair.

And gloried to think that a flower I carried.

Was worn as a trophy and cherished and pressed.

And blushed over the sonnets that rashly I penned.

To liken my lips and my cheeks to your bloom.

We are young and our youth and our reckless play.

With the heartstrings of men, as our fingers might stray.

Mid the chords of a harp, but are fain to lay down.

With the white bridal veils, our scepter and crown.

To take up the sad, earnest duties of life:

The sober pleasures of mother and wife.

Since then I have laid my roses to rest.

In the chill, waxen fingers clasped o'er the breast.

Of the loved and the lost and have taught ye to love.

In all your wild loneliness over the tomb.

Have seen you all wet with the blood of the brave.

Swear, feel, yet vainly, a country to save.

And stand with the silent, the lonely and the sad.

Who wait the dawn of their day of freedom.

Who wait the dawn of their day of freedom.

Who wait the dawn of their day of freedom.

Who wait the dawn of their day of freedom.

George Dittie speaks of the "figuring in a foreign language."

The sphere of the paragraphist has widened considerably of late. Even the turf now has a punster.

The McDowell Medical Society will convene in Henderson next Tuesday and remain in session three days.

"Virtue is but a comparative term," says an exchange. Yes, you rarely ever see it in the superlative degree.

George Otto Trevelyan has been appointed Chief Secretary of Ireland. He is a nephew of the late Lord Macaulay.

An exchange says Patti is expert with the rifle. Well, rather, she rifled the pockets of the people of this country recently of several hundred thousand dollars.

Punster and Freeland, two two year old colts that came to the front at the recent Lexington races, promise to eclipse all other stars in the equine firmament.

It has never occurred to us that Col. Jesse James would make celestial timber, yet a Missouri preacher asserts that he "is now an angel in heaven." St. James!

An exchange puts in a good word for old Mother Eve by saying "She never was a big fat at the play!" Very true, but it should be remembered there were no dress occasions in those days.

As Mr. O'Connell would say, Jesse James missed the opportunity of his life by dying. Were he alive now he would be rollicking in the enjoyment of the credit of having murdered Cavendish and Burke.

An exchange says "Emma Abbott has invented a new kiss." She will please send us a few samples for spring wear—rich, puckered material preferred. No objection to her bringing the sample case herself.

Why don't persons who are always preaching "It is more blessed to give than to receive," practice what they preach. There is no scarcity of opportunities for the exemplification of the benefits of their professed doctrine.

Skoggs has been in a great state of mind since reading Prof. Tobin's lecture on the explosive qualities of flour. He now thinks that only larger boat and a few other of the necessities of life can be taken with safety.

Gen. James F. Robinson, Jr., of Lexington, will have the management of Crab Orchard Springs the coming season. He has personal qualities which will add greatly to popularity of the Saratoga of Kentucky.

Hon. W. C. Owens, Speaker of the House of Representatives, has stripped for the fight and leaped into the ring in the Seventh Congressional District. Jo Blackburn will be back in time to afford him pleasant summer amusement.

Enquirer: No, the plan you speak of will not prevent a pretty girl from being kissed. The only way to protect her from marauding masculine lips is to put a time-lock on her mouth and disarrange the combination whenever one of her beaux comes to see her.

The Louisville Post hasn't a favorable opinion of Congressional humorists in general. It says, however, of our Representative: "The humor of McKendree's speech, on the other hand, is perfectly understandable, spontaneous, original, bright and impromptu."

The head of the national department of agriculture has been elevated to a Cabinet position. That officer will be known as the Secretary of Agriculture. The creation of this office will give the official circles of the government an additional pumpkin head.

Clara Louise Kellogg, the frequent fareweller of the operatic stage, it is announced, will positively make her last appearance before the public on the 19th of this month at the Academy of Music in New York. She will bow herself off the stage for the purpose of moving into the state of matrimony.

Col. Jacob, who puts himself forward as the champion of the Union soldiers in Kentucky, should enlighten the people by telling them where he was during the darkest days of the struggle for the nation's life. When the war became a serious matter, when it meant blood and death, when the fortunes of the Union were on the verge of disaster—R. T. Jacob, the now "boastful leader of Union soldiers, laid down his arms and went down into the Southern Confederacy.

Mississippi's Mahone.

Gen. Chalmers, of Mississippi, the late Representative in Congress, of the "Shoe-String" district, whose seat was recently given to the colored statesman, Lynch, has turned a double-somersault, landing in the Republican camp and also in the Democratic camp into the Republican ranks is not so surprising or difficult a feat as his jump from Vicksburg to the extreme north end of the State. Chalmers, who is a shallow, worldly man, has always been an extremist in politics, and he therefore had but a short distance to go in reaching the extreme wing of the Republican party. He has done more to involve the Democratic party in trouble, and to retard progress in Mississippi, than all other leaders of the party in that State combined. That he is gone is reason for congratulation rather than regret, but why, having become a Republican, he should leave an overhanging Republican district, is difficult to understand. Possibly he has some conscience left, and, having proven a traitor to principle and an honest constituency, he is unable to remain at his old home and face those whom he has so basely deserted. Let us hope at least that this feeling—an unwillingness to remain amongst those to whom he had proven false—prompted him to change from his old district to the Second. Having been driven from a seat which, according to the decision of his new-made allies in Congress, he had reached by grossly corrupt means, and having had the stomp of fraud branded upon his brow, he is, according to the accepted standard of political character, fit to shine only as a Republican leader, and his going over to that party was therefore a very rational, proper and appropriate thing for him to do. A happy riddance to the Democracy is the Mahone of Mississippi!

G. H. Towery, of Dixon, Webster county, wrote a letter to the Covington Agriculturalist, a Greenback paper, in which he advocated the election of Col. Jacob, and declared that "Devotion to the lost cause had been the test for office" in that county. Mr. J. W. Tapp, the county clerk of Webster, replied to Towery and showed that of the fifty-two county officers elected in Webster since the war only twelve were ex-Confederates. Towery, it will be seen, is a fully ally of the Jacob movement.

Col. Jno. W. Caldwell, who represents the Third District in Congress, has written a letter to the editor of the Russellville Herald-Enterprise, in which he announces his purpose not to seek re-election, and declares that he will not accept the nomination unless it becomes apparent that such a course is demanded by the interests of the party. The letter of declination is characteristically frank and manly.

Col. R. T. Jacob is already being paid for the service he is rendering the Republican party. His son has been appointed Deputy United States Marshal for Kentucky. A place should be provided for the Colonel, also, as he will be prominent among the Republican nominees after the returns come in from the next August election.

The Callettsburg Democrat says Col. Jacob's canvass of the mountains was a partial failure; that his charge that Democrats who were Union men had been proscribed, fell flat in that section, where "more offices have been held since the war by Democrats who were Union men than by ex-Confederates and their allies."

The Committee for the Third Superior Court District have called a convention to be held at Lexington, June 14, to nominate a candidate for Superior Court Judge.

THE PRESS MEETING.

The Western Kentucky Press Association met at Princeton, Ky., May 10 and continued in session two days. We started on Tuesday, in order to be certain that we would not "get left." At Nortonville the next day we met a number of the quill drivers and a ride of an hour or two took us to Princeton. We were met at the depot by Capt. Allen and other members of the committee of reception and assigned homes with the hospitable citizens of the town.

It was our pleasure and good fortune, in company with Mr. Cannon, to be entertained during our stay in Princeton by Mr. Wm. A. James and his estimable lady. Mr. James' family consists of himself and wife, his clever and companionable son, Mr. Thos. James, and his lovely and accomplished daughter, Miss Willie. They spared no pains to make our stay a pleasant one and they succeeded in doing so, for it has never been our lot to be more handsomely entertained anywhere. It will take years to efface from memory's tablet the recollections of the delicious edibles, and especially the great luscious strawberries, with which we were feasted while partaking of their hospitality. The piano and vocal music with which we were occasionally favored by Miss James will long be remembered as one of the most pleasurable features of an exceedingly pleasant visit. But to return to our account of the "doings of the Press gang, as a body."

On Wednesday evening a social reception was given the members in the parlors of the Collegiate Institute, which is ably presided over by Prof.

H. H. Allen. Here the beauty and vivacity of Princeton was congregated and an evening most pleasantly spent. Misses Mammie and Flora Hays and Miss Bettie Marshall, the female members of the faculty, contributed largely to the pleasure of the occasion. Miss Mammie Hays, the accomplished music teacher, favored the guests with several selections of vocal and instrumental music.

On Thursday, after the adjournment of the business meeting, the body visited Princeton High School, taught by Prof. E. Lee Blanton and listened to recitations, declamations and other interesting exercises for an hour. Prof. Blanton teaches a mixed school and stands high as an educator in Princeton. He has a large and flourishing school.

In the afternoon we visited the College. Prof. Allen had arranged an interesting programme for the entertainment of the scribes. They listened to recitations, music, etc., at the conclusion of which Prof. Allen made a few remarks of welcome. President Young then arose and briefly responded and introduced Prof. J. T. Gosnell, of the Leitchfield Sunbeam, who is the orator of the W. K. P. A., who made a short and appropriate speech to the school. Prof. Allen's school is in a very flourishing condition. He is a most capable instructor, having secured the prize for scholarship in a class in Center College, in which Col. W. C. P. Breckenridge, Hon. John Young Brown and Gov. T. T. Crittenden were class-mates.

At night a grand hop at Powell's Hall was given in honor of the visitors. Here the gallantry and loveliness of Princeton and Caldwell county gathered and tripped the "fantastic" till 2 A. M. If his pencil pushes passes talents at all they lie in his head and not in his feet and so he had to content himself with being a spectator of the dancing and making chin music for the young ladies.

On Friday morning, after the business had been concluded, we made a tour over the town to tell the girls good-bye and then the whole cavalcade took the noon train for their respective homes. Thus ended a pleasant and profitable meeting of the Western Kentucky Press Association.

NOTES.

Capt. Allen made the boys fell at home in his office. They devoured his exchanges ad libitum.

Bob Thomas, like the writer, is troubled with bashfulness, and if he courted any girls we don't know it.

Zeno Young was the "masher" of the crowd and was voted the handsomest member of the gang, by the young ladies.

E. B. Hendricks was the youngest member present. He has recently become the publisher of the Eddyville Democrat.

J. T. Gosnell was accompanied by his young and charming "better half," who kept him straight during the trip. He is the Cicero of the press.

Brother Bosley, a Methodist minister, but one of the most jovial members of the gang. He was elected Treasurer of the W. K. P. A. and allowed till the next meeting to fix his bond.

Urey Woodson was placed upon the local reception committee as his home is in Princeton if it be true that "the home is where the heart is." If he undertakes to deny this, "Eliza" about it.

Mr. Filippo, Capt. Allen's associate editor, contributed largely to the pleasure of the visitors. Indeed the boys would have to Filippo-ver a nickel to tell which of the Banner's editors treated them with the most courtesy.

Tom Cannon was placed under our charge by Capt. Allen, who knew his propensity for flirting. He succeeded in eluding us once and when discovered was trying to make arrangements to embark in Flora-culture in Princeton.

Jno. Lyne was a decided ladies' man, but as he has a sweetheart in this city we will not tell of his exploits. He is a better journalist than mathematician, as it took him two evenings to de-Limitate one proposition, given him at the college.

W. K. P. A.

Minutes of the 4th Semi-Annual Meeting, held at Princeton, Ky., May 10-12, 1892.

The Western Kentucky Press Association met in Powell's Hall, Princeton, Ky., at 9:30 o'clock A. M., May 11, 1892, with the President, Zeno F. Young, in the chair.

A call of the roll showed the following papers represented as follows: Madisonville Times, Zeno F. Young; Henderson Reporter, John A. Lyne; Owensboro Messenger, Urey Woodson; Princeton Banner, C. T. Allen; and L. T. Filippo. Leitchfield Sunbeam, J. T. Gosnell. Muhlenberg Echo, R. Y. Thomas, Jr. Bowling Green Gazette, T. G. Bosley. Lyon County Democrat, E. B. Hendricks. South Kentuckian, Chas. M. Meacham.

The following papers were not represented: Paducah News, Paducah Beacon, Elkton Register, Hartford Herald, Russellville Herald-Enterprise, Crittenden Press, and Clinton Democrat.

The Paducah Enterprise was dropped from the roll, that paper having suspended publication. The Henderson State Sentinel, represented by Tom L. Cannon, was then admitted to membership.

The subject "How to conduct a newspaper," was then discussed at length by the various members present.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Col. H. M. McCarty, late editor of the Elizabethtown News, was introduced to the Association and made an interesting talk, showing the difference between journalism to-day and journalism thirty years ago when he began his career as an editor. He was listened to with marked attention and at the conclusion of his address was, upon motion, elected an honorary member of the association.

The following gentlemen were appointed a committee on resolutions, to report at the next session: Chas. M. Meacham, Tom L. Cannon, and T. G. Bosley.

After accepting an invitation to visit the schools of Princeton the association adjourned at 11 o'clock.

SECOND SESSION, FRIDAY, MAY 12.

The Association was called to order at 9:30 o'clock by President Young, eleven members being present.

The committee on Constitution and By-laws, consisting of Messrs. Young, Bransford and Woodson, was granted further time and promised through the Chairman to have their report by the next regular meeting.

On motion of Mr. T. G. Bosley, the bounds of the Western Kentucky Press Association were extended so as to include the 33 counties of the First Superior Court District, and all papers in the District invited to unite and co-operate with the Association in its work of promoting the interests of journalism in Western Kentucky.

The committee then reported the following resolutions, which were discussed and adopted:

Resolved: That we recommend to publishers of papers the adoption of the cash in advance system for subscriptions, believing that to be the only successful way of conducting a newspaper.

Resolved: That it is the sense of this Association that expensive entertainments and lavish expenditures, on the part of the people of cities or towns in which the meetings of the W. K. P. A. may be held, should be discouraged.

Resolved: That the members of this Association are under lasting obligations to Capt. C. T. Allen and Mr. L. T. Filippo, editors of the Banner, for their cordial courtesy in receiving and entertaining the Association, and that our thanks are due them for the very interesting programme which they arranged for the entertainment of this body.

Resolved: That we tender our sincere thanks to the citizens of Princeton who extended their hospitality to this Association and entertained its members so handsomely during their stay in Princeton.

Resolved: That the thanks of this body be extended to Col. C. P. Atmore, Mr. B. J. Horron and Col. H. S. Bevier, General Ticket Agents of the L. & N., the C. O. & S. W. and O. & N. railroads, for their generous courtesy in granting free transportation to members attending this meeting.

Resolved: That we congratulate the towns of Princeton upon having such excellent schools as the Princeton High School, presided over by Prof. E. Lee Blanton and the Princeton Collegiate Institute, Rev. H. H. Allen, Principal, and that we were highly pleased with the manner in which the schools are conducted and with the exercises by which this body was entertained during its visit to said schools.

Resolved: That our thanks are extended to Mr. W. S. Powell, owner of Powell's Hall, for the courtesy extended in allowing the meetings of this body to be held in his large and handsomely arranged room, and that Princeton is to be congratulated upon the possession of a hall so commodious and well adapted for public entertainments.

The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year: Zeno F. Young, of the Madisonville Times, President; L. T. Filippo, of the Princeton Banner, Vice President; Chas. M. Meacham, of the Hopkinsville South Kentuckian, Secretary; T. G. Bosley, of the Bowling Green Gazette, Treasurer.

On motion it was agreed that the executive committee of the Association shall be composed of the President and Secretary.

Adjourned, subject to the call of the executive committee, at 11 o'clock.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM, Sec'y.
